PERSONAL GOAL

To protect the Earth, and Great Britain in particular, from alien threats.

PERSONALITY

Lethbridge-Stewart is first and foremost a military man and often finds it difficult to relax or have a life outside of his occupation. He finds it difficult to grasp scientific and alien concepts but does the best he can, usually by martial means. Still, he is a good and reliable ally when the going gets tough and he refuses to surrender.

BACKGROUND

The Brigadier followed in his grandfather's footsteps by joining the military. He served in the regular army before being tapped for UNIT. He has little time for a social life, which has been detrimental to his marriage.
